

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Fifty years ago this week the residents of Laurel Hill were talking of pulling down the new school house which was being erected in that section of the town and of erecting it on the front side of the lot. It was felt that the new building was insecure on its site and it was claimed that it could not be safely moved. A meeting was called that week to consider the matter. The same week the Hook and Ladder boys went down the river on the Steamer Ella to take part in the firemen's parade at New London. They took the hose carriage, pump, with them. It was announced that the 25th annual convention of the Connecticut Teachers' Association was to be held in this city during the latter part of October of that year.

Monday, September 4, 1871—The directors of the Chelsea Savings Bank declared a semi-annual dividend at the rate of six per cent per annum, payable on and after the 10th inst.

Building on Laurel Hill is brisk. Besides several private residences, which are in different stages of construction, W. H. Jennings has recently raised the frame of a large block of dwelling houses on Main street.

The Sunday schools connected with Trinity and Christ churches went to Mystic Island Saturday in goodly numbers, on the steamer Ella. They were the guests of F. H. Brewer, having come on his invitation. They returned home at 7 o'clock, tired out but delighted with the trip.

The improvements in progress on the road on the east bank of the river near the residence of Horace Whitaker are just what were needed and will much enhance the attractions of the shore beyond Sunnyside.

Tuesday, September 5, 1871—It is stated that the residents of Laurel Hill are mostly in favor of pulling down the new school house and erecting it upon the front part of the lot. The expense is estimated by some at about $1,000. This will probably be the proposition made at the school meeting on Friday evening. It is alleged that the house cannot be safely moved and this is given as one reason for pulling it down. Nearly all agree that it is insecure as it now stands. There is little doubt but that it will be pulled down.

Wednesday, September 6, 1871—The Hook and Ladder boys will turn out a strong force today to attend the parade and picnic of the New London fire department. They go down the river on the steamer Ella taking with them the Third Regiment band and the Ghost House carriage. As they never do things by halves we may expect that they will reflect credit upon the department of this city. Chief Engineer Deane accompanied them.

The old building adjoining the Trueman property on Franklin square has at last been demolished to give room for the new brick block which is to be erected on that site. One by one the old landmarks pass away. There are several others that could pass and not be mourned over, either.

Thursday, September 7, 1871—The day of the school meeting, called to consider the Laurel Hill house has been changed from Friday evening to Monday evening next.

Friday, September 8, 1871—One of our prominent business men on Commercial street has several times of late expressed to his friends his intention of buying a horse for his business. On Wednesday some of his friends interested themselves in his behalf and endeavored to assist him in his selection, and every old, worn-out nag that came in sight was sent to his place of business and the owner thereof informed that the gentleman wanted to buy just such a horse as his. A glance at the array of gothic steeds drawn up in front of his door broke him down and he relented, for the sight was truly harrowing. There stood eleven as best-like "horses" as one need to look at—rugged, spavined and afflicted with all the ills the horse family is heir to and not one of them worth over ten dollars.

A vivid display of northern lights was witnessed last evening. Brilliant streams shot up in the northeast and over a wide arc of southern appearance across the zenith through which the stars dimly twinkled.

Saturday, September 9, 1871—At a meeting of the selectmen Friday the following persons were appointed special constables for the town of Norwich: John H. Norris, Henry C. Irish, John W. Scott and David B. Johnson.

The 25th annual meeting of the Connecticut Teachers' Association will be held in this city on the 19th and 20th of October.
